Teacher Manual: M/J Civics, Quarters 3–4

Facilitator copy. Contains answer guides, rubrics, grading notes, and the EOC standards index.

Do not publish this document to students. It documents Modules 6 through 11 as built: 172 items in six modules, 6 Primary Source Reports, two quarterly exams, two ungraded practice sections, and the Florida Civics EOC standards index in Section 11. Keep it in your teacher files and re-render it if the course is revised.

0 How to use this manual

This is the facilitator guide for the second half of M/J Civics: Modules 6 through 11 (Quarters 3 and 4). It assumes you already have access to the built Canvas course. Everything earlier in the course (Modules 1 through 5 and the supplemental module) is covered in the Quarters 1–2 manual; this manual points to it wherever a standard was taught there. Read Sections 1, 2, and 5 before your first week; keep Sections 6, 7, and 11 open while you grade; use Sections 9 and 14 to plan your weekly rhythm. Items are always named by module order (for example 6.17); the week numbers in the pacing tables are a suggestion only. Anything that depends on your school's Canvas configuration is marked [VERIFY].

SECTION

1 How this course works: a typical lesson, a typical week, the major assessments

A typical lesson page. Lessons live on Optima-hosted pages embedded in each Canvas module. Every lesson follows one pattern: a header with a short metadata strip and a read-aloud player; a callout titled Glossary of Subject Vocabulary at the top, with a pronunciation and a hover definition for each term; a short objectives list; and 800–1,200 words of teaching text written at a sixth-grade reading level and divided into titled sections with time estimates. Where a lesson introduces a foreign-language term, a Foreign Language Vocabulary callout sits inline near the first use. A term is glossed where it first appears and again in the next lesson only. Biography and landmark boxes appear where a figure or case needs one. The page ends with a "What you'll do next" block that names the graded items by title.

The graded work is not on the lesson page. It is the separate Canvas items that follow it in the module.

A typical week. Each week fills a block of ten item numbers in its module (for example 6.1–6.10). The shape is the same every week:

Day	What the student does	Graded?
Mon	Lesson 1, then a Reading Quiz (5 inference questions)	Auto (5 points)
Tue	Primary Source 1, then Critical Questions (2 questions)	Auto (2 points)
Wed	Lesson 2, then (in most weeks) a Reading Quiz	Auto
Thu	Primary Source 2 and the week's Thursday item: a Primary Source Report (PSR weeks), a Reading Quiz plus Critical Questions (RQ weeks), or those plus a graded VR Sync Activity (VR weeks)	PSR: teacher (20 points)
Weekly	One Discussion: initial post plus one reply	Teacher (10 points)
Weekly	Two solo supplementary VR exercises	Completion / light
Module start and end	Intro wrapper and outro wrapper (survey quizzes)	Survey, 0 points

The six modules.

Module	Suggested weeks	Items	Essential question (intro and outro wrappers)
6 · The Citizen	19–23	6.1–6.50	What does a republic need from its citizens, and what do citizens need from their republic?
7 · Money and Markets	24–26	7.1–7.30	How should a free republic handle money, markets, and the power of wealth?
8 · A Republic Tested	27	8.1–8.11	What does it take for a republic to survive a crisis, and what does it ask of its citizens?
9 · Origins	28–30	9.1–9.30	What did the Founders inherit, and what did they have to invent?
10 · Organization and Citizens	31–33	10.1–10.30	How does the Constitution divide power, and what keeps each part of government in its place?
11 · Policy and Practice	34–36	11.1–11.31	What does it take for citizens to keep a free republic working, at home and in the world?

Major assessments. There are two quarterly exams: the Quarter 3 Exam (8.11, end of Module 8) and the Quarter 4 Exam (11.31, end of Module 11). Each is 40 multiple-choice questions on that quarter only, one attempt, 45 minutes, auto-graded, in the Projects & Milestones group. Module 11 also holds two ungraded practice sections (11.22 and 11.26, 15 questions each, unlimited attempts) that together make a practice for the state Civics EOC. Outside those, the rigor is spread across recurring source-based work, and the teacher-graded load is small (Section 10).

SECTION

2 Ungraded interactives and the intro/outro wrappers

Two things new facilitators most often misread:

- Ungraded lesson elements cost you nothing. The glossary boxes, hover definitions, read-aloud player, and (where a lesson carries one) interactive widget never produce a submission. A student who skips them shows it indirectly, in a weaker Reading Quiz or Critical Questions score, not as a missing grade. Do not build a gradebook column for them.
- The wrappers are Canvas Quizzes in survey mode, not pages. Each module opens with an intro wrapper and closes with an outro wrapper. The intro captures a first answer to the module's essential question. The outro captures the revised answer, a 1–5 confidence rating, “what is still unclear,” and a virtue choice with a short reflection. They are quizzes so the answers come back as sortable cohort data.

The single highest-leverage move in the course. Spend 15–20 minutes reading each module's outro responses as a set. Sort for low-confidence answers and repeated “still unclear” items. Then post one targeted announcement on the top confusion and message the two or three students whose confidence is lowest. This finds a struggling student weeks before a grade would.

3 AI and VR in this course (student-facing)

AI. The posture, stated in the syllabus and consistent across Optima, is AI awareness, not required tool use. Students may use AI to support learning (explain a concept another way, check understanding, brainstorm) unless an assignment says otherwise, but AI may never do the reasoning an assignment asks for. The Primary Source Reports and discussions specifically ask for the student's own reasoning from a text. A student who uses AI notes it briefly. Do not add AI requirements.

VR. Each week carries two solo supplementary VR exercises tied to that week's content, and five weeks (21, 23, 26, 31, 34) carry a graded VR Sync Activity in the Sync Activities group. Describe VR by what students do, in their own headset; do not name a platform. For live sections, assemble a short gallery walk of the week's captures. [VERIFY] The VR exercises and the five Sync Activities are added to the course separately from the lessons and assessments in this build; confirm they are present in your copy before the first VR week.

SECTION

4 Using Ignite AI to support students (teacher-facing)

[VERIFY] before relying on specifics. Ignite AI's exact features vary by Canvas release and by what Optima has enabled. The moves below are described functionally.

The Canvas AI assistant is a support tool for you and the main lever that makes a high student-to-teacher ratio feel personal. Use it to:

- Draft individualized feedback on Primary Source Reports and discussion posts, which you then edit and own.
- Summarize a module's outro responses to surface the cohort's sticking points in minutes.
- Surface students who need a nudge (low outro confidence, missed work, a falling quiz trend) and draft a warm check-in.
- Generate practice variants for a student who needs another rep on an inference question.
- Communicate with families in clear, kind summaries, and translate when that helps.

Two rules govern every use: coach, not catch (Section 8), and AI drafts while the teacher decides. You read, edit, and own anything sent to a student or family. AI is never used to surveil, rank, or auto-penalize.

SECTION

5 Grading categories and Canvas gradebook setup

The course uses three assignment groups. Weights are set in each teacher's own copy of the course; confirm them after you import.

Weight	Group	What's in it
60%	Async Homework	Reading Quizzes (5 points), Critical Questions (2 points), Discussions (10 points), and the two solo supplementary VR exercises each week
30%	Projects & Milestones	The six Primary Source Reports (20 points each) and the two quarterly exams (8.11 and 11.31, 40 points each at one point per question)
10%	Sync Activities	The five graded VR Sync Activities (Thursday VR weeks) and any live-session work

Common mix-up worth flagging: the Primary Source Reports (the Thursday items in PSR weeks) belong in Projects & Milestones, not Async Homework. The Reading Quizzes and Critical Questions that look similar are Async Homework. Check the group column, not just the item name. [VERIFY]

Recommendation, not an enforced setting: the two quarterly exams share Projects & Milestones with the Primary Source Reports. As a default, set the two exams' point values so that together they land near 30% of the grade for these two quarters, then adjust to your judgment. If you run a Live section and want the exams weighted differently, make that change in your own section's gradebook so you do not change the split for every other section on this shared course.

1. Gradebook > Settings > Weight final grade based on assignment groups. Confirm the three groups and their weights.
2. Check each item is in the right group (see the table above).

3. The wrappers are surveys (zero points) and the two practice sections (11.22, 11.26) are ungraded practice quizzes with no assignment group. Leave all four out of the gradebook.

Completion vs. points. Use Modules > Requirements / progress view as your at-a-glance signal that ungraded scaffolding (lesson pages, wrappers, VR) is getting done.

SECTION

6 Rubrics and answer guides for teacher-graded items

Only two item types need your judgment: the six Primary Source Reports and the Discussions. Reading Quizzes, Critical Questions, and exams are auto-graded.

Primary Source Report rubric (20 points: four criteria at 5 points each; 300–450 words; online text entry or upload). Attach as a native Canvas Rubric. Each report prompt has four parts, and the criteria read the same way across all six:

Criterion	Full (5)	Partial (3)	Thin (1)	Missing (0)
Understanding of the source	States what the text says accurately, in the student's own words, with a short quotation	Mostly accurate, some gaps	Vague or partly wrong	Not shown
Quality of reasoning	Uses the lesson as well as the source; gives reasons and specific evidence for the central comparison or judgment	Reasons given, evidence general	Assertions without reasons	Not shown
Clarity and precision	Organized in the four parts; quotations short and accurate	Mostly clear, some loose wording	Hard to follow	Not shown
Intellectual honesty	Names a real limit of the source and a place to look for the answer	Names a limit, vague	The limit named is not about the source	Not shown

What a strong report looks like, by item (teacher only; look for the idea, not the wording):

Item	The central move in part 2–3
6.17 Declaration of Sentiments	Explains what the writers gained by copying the form of the Declaration of Independence (their cause claimed the same principle), and uses two things the lesson says people did across the seventy-two years to read the delay as a lesson about how the republic changes its rules.
6.37 Sedition Act of 1798	Names one feature of the text Andrew Hamilton would welcome (for example, truth as a defense) and one he would reject, then uses the lesson's account of who was tried to show a law can be fair on paper and unfair in use.
7.17 Sherman Antitrust Act	Uses Smith's passage and one lesson example to show how a monopoly stops the invisible hand, then contrasts the law's first weak years with its use against Standard Oil to separate words from enforcement.
8.7 Bush address	Names an action that expanded government power and gives one reason to worry and one to support it, then compares Bush's words about treating neighbors with the treatment of Japanese Americans in 1942 to separate what a leader says from what a nation does.

9.17 Declaration of Independence	Links one grievance to the policy it names and to the natural right or principle it says was violated, then gives one reason the grievance justified independence and one reason a loyal colonist might disagree, using facts such as the Olive Branch Petition.
10.27 Miranda v. Arizona	Names two warnings and the amendment protected, connects Miranda to the Fifth, Sixth, and 14th Amendments, and compares what the Court balances in Miranda and in Terry v. Ohio, with one fact from each.

Part 4 of every report asks what the source cannot tell the reader. Full credit needs a real limit (for example, whether most people agreed, how the law worked in practice) and a plausible place to look (a newspaper, a court record, a historian's account), not a restatement of the text.

Discussion rubric (10 points; initial post plus one reply). Three levels: Substantive = full credit (a clear claim, specific evidence from the module's lessons, and a reply that engages the classmate's reasoning). Thin = partial credit. Missing = zero. Reward reasoning from the lesson over opinion, and reward a respectful reply that strengthens or challenges a classmate with a point of its own.

SECTION

7 Assessment and activity catalog: how to run and grade each type

Set your late and missing policy to match the syllabus. Attach the Primary Source Report rubric as a native Canvas Rubric so it scores in SpeedGrader.

Type	Scoring	Recommended move
Reading Quiz (Tier 1; Tier 2 in Thursday RQ weeks)	Auto-graded, 5 questions, 5 points, 2 attempts (keep highest), answers not shuffled, correct answers shown after the due date	Leave to auto-grade. Scan the item analysis for a question the whole cohort missed: that is your next announcement, not a regrade.
Critical Questions (Tier 1)	Auto-graded, 2 questions of varied type (multiple choice, true/false, select-two), 2 points, 2 attempts	Leave to auto-grade. These check that the student read the source.
Primary Source Report (Tier 3)	Teacher-graded, 20 points, four-criterion rubric (Section 6)	Grade in one batch per report. Draft feedback with Ignite AI, edit, and lead with what the student did well.
Discussion (Tier 2)	Teacher-graded, 10 points, three-level rubric	Skim for substance; reply publicly to model good thinking and privately for anything that needs correcting.
Quarterly exams (8.11, 11.31)	Auto-graded, 40 multiple-choice, one attempt, 45 minutes, correct answers hidden	Leave to auto-grade. Review the item analysis by EOC category (Section 11) to spot systemic gaps.
Practice sections (11.22, 11.26)	Ungraded, 15 questions each, unlimited attempts, no assignment group	Encourage students to sit them timed, then review misses against the lesson named in each answer's feedback.
Intro / outro wrappers (Tier 4)	Survey, zero points	Do not score for correctness. Read the outro as a set (Section 2).
VR exercises and VR Sync Activities	Completion / light; the Sync Activity is graded in the Sync Activities group	Check the capture happened; assemble an occasional gallery walk. Do not over-grade.

SECTION

8 Coach, not catch

Your job is to move each student forward, not to detect and punish. In practice:

- Feedback names the next step, not only the error; lead with what is working.
- Quizzes allow a second attempt on purpose. It is a learning tool, not a trap.
- Use analytics and Ignite AI to find students who need help early, then reach out. Not to build a case.
- On suspected AI misuse or copied answers, open a conversation: ask the student to talk through their reasoning from the text. Treat it as formation, not accusation.
- Public comments model good thinking; they never single out weak work for criticism.

9 Weekly announcement scripts

Because On-Demand students are asynchronous, your weekly announcement is your main presence. Clone this template, then use the per-module openers.

[Module N / week] template. "Scholars: this week you should be in [Module N, item range]. The focus is [one-line focus]. Don't miss: [the due Primary Source Report or discussion, with date]. One tip: [the concept students trip on]. Questions? Office hours are [day/time], or message me any time. [You]"

- Module 6: We begin with the oldest question a republic asks: who counts as a citizen, and what do citizens owe? Read the lessons slowly. The reports this module ask you to argue from a text, not summarize it.
- Module 7: This module is about money: the national debt, taxes, markets, and what happens when a government plans an economy. Compare the sources against each other; the discussions ask for a stand.
- Module 8: This is the short, serious module: how a republic can fail, and how one answered an attack. Some material is heavy (see Section 13). The Quarter 3 Exam comes at the end and covers this quarter only.
- Module 9: We go back to the roots: Athens, Rome, Jerusalem, Magna Carta, the Enlightenment, the Declaration, and the Constitution. These ideas carry the most weight on the state EOC; ask students to connect each source to a failure it answered.
- Module 10: This is the module on how the machine is built: three branches, checks and balances, federalism, and the Bill of Rights. Keep the Constitution open in another tab as you read.
- Module 11: We end wide: elections, media, foreign policy, and economic systems, then two practice sections and the Quarter 4 Exam. The practice sections are ungraded; use them to find your gaps.

Situational scripts.

- Mid-module check-in: "If your confidence was low on the last wrapper, that is useful information, not a verdict. Here is a two-minute reset on [concept], and my hours are [day/time]."

- Before a report: “Before you write [item], reread the source once more and underline the one line your argument will lean on.”
- Re-engagement: “I haven't seen work from you in a bit and I'd like to. Tell me where you're stuck and we'll make a plan.”

10 Teacher workflow and workload map

A normal week, in order: triage the outro responses (module boundaries only), grade the week's Primary Source Report if there is one, skim the discussion, skim VR captures, post the weekly announcement, answer messages. Reading Quizzes, Critical Questions, and the exams auto-grade, so the real load is 6 reports and 18 discussions across the six modules.

Module	Primary Source Reports	Discussions	Also
6 · The Citizen	2	5	–
7 · Money and Markets	1	3	–
8 · A Republic Tested	1	1	Quarter 3 Exam (auto)
9 · Origins	1	3	–
10 · Organization and Citizens	1	3	–
11 · Policy and Practice	0	3	Quarter 4 Exam (auto), two practice sections
Total	6	18

Where the heavy weeks are. Module 6 is the peak: two reports and five discussions in five weeks. After that the load is one report at most per module. Module 11 has no report, so use that room for review and for reading the practice-section results.

11 Standards coverage and the Florida Civics EOC index

This course aligns to Florida's SS.7.CG Civics and Government benchmarks. Benchmark codes live in this teacher copy only; they never appear on student pages, quizzes, or assignment descriptions. This index covers Quarters 3–4 and points back to the Quarters 1–2 manual for the earlier half: a benchmark's full coverage is its row here plus its row there.

The test. The state Civics EOC assesses 39 of the 40 SS.7.CG benchmarks and groups them into four reporting categories. The authoritative source is the Civics EOC Test Item Specifications (FLDOE, November 2023 draft), Appendix B (content) and Appendix D (categories and weights). Weights: Origins and Purposes of Law and Government 25–30%; Roles, Rights, and Responsibilities of Citizens 15–20%; Government Policies and Political Processes 20–25%; Organization and Function of Government 20–25%. Three benchmarks are tested through another: SS.7.CG.1.1 and SS.7.CG.1.4 through 1.2, and SS.7.CG.3.14 through 2.6. SS.7.CG.4.4 (September 11) is not tested but remains course content. The tables below follow

Appendix D, so a benchmark's category may differ from its number (for example, CG.3.10 sits in Origins and CG.3.6 and CG.3.11 sit in Roles).

In the exam columns, a number is the question tagged primarily to that benchmark, and a number in parentheses is a secondary tag. Practice columns show the question number within 11.22 or 11.26.

Exam balance. Counting each question once by its primary tag: the Quarter 3 Exam is R 12, G 5, O 1, P 11, n/a 11 (29 of 40 in a tested category; the rest are economics, Holocaust, and communism items), and the Quarter 4 Exam is O 17, G 9, R 6, P 7, n/a 1. (O = Origins, R = Roles, P = Policies, G = Organization; n/a = not an EOC-tested area.) The two practice sections together are 10 Origins, 5 Organization, 6 Roles, and 9 Policies questions. Quarter 3 leans toward Roles and Policies and Quarter 4 toward Origins and Organization, which matches how the content falls.

Using this index before the real EOC. After each exam, pull the item analysis and group the missed questions by category using the tags above. A cohort-wide miss on, say, a Government Policies item tells you to spend a review day on that benchmark. Several benchmarks have clarifications that the lessons in this half take only partway (for example, the origins of the two major parties, administrative agencies, and the structure of the state and federal court systems); those clarifications are taught in Quarters 1–2, so a student who struggles on them should be sent back to that material.

Tags for every exam and practice question are kept in `02_Design/exam-tags.md`; the lesson-level crosswalk is `02_Design/benchmark-crosswalk.md`.

12 What makes this course classical and cultivating culture

Classical moves this course actually makes:

- Primary sources, every week. Students meet Washington, Hamilton, Madison, Marshall, and the Constitution itself, not a textbook summary of them. The Great Conversation is the method, not a slogan.
- Argue from the text. The Primary Source Reports ask a student to reason from a source and the lesson, and name a limit of the source, which defeats mere restating.
- The six questions of classical republicanism. Who rules, how authority is shared, what makes it legitimate, what binds a people together, how a republic prepares for threats, and what habits and customs sustain it. Each module returns to some of these.
- The virtue thread. Each outro asks students to name the virtue a figure in the module showed, and to name a place in their own life that will ask for it.

Cultivating culture in an asynchronous course. Name students' good thinking in feedback and (with permission) in announcements; model your own curiosity about the sources; keep the module's essential question visible; treat feedback as a relationship, not a transaction. In VR and study hall, let students hear each other reason aloud: that is where an asynchronous cohort becomes a community.

13 Sensitive-content flags and family/student scripts

Flag these in advance. Give a neutral setup; save any debate for the lesson.

Where	What
Module 6 (6.1, 6.3)	Dred Scott and the Chinese Exclusion Act: racial exclusion from citizenship, with period language and reasoning in the primary source.
Module 6 (6.31–6.37)	The Sedition Act and the trial of printers and editors for speech.
Module 7 (7.21–7.24)	Planned economies, including the famine in China from 1958 to 1962, and the Communist Manifesto.
Module 8 (8.1–8.4)	The rise of the Nazi party, the Nuremberg Laws, and the Holocaust: persecution and the murder of Jews. Lead with a plain, sober setup.
Module 8 (8.5–8.8)	The attacks of September 11 and the internment of Japanese Americans in 1942.
Module 10 (10.21–10.28)	Landmark cases on religion, criminal interrogation and policing (Miranda, Terry), and racial segregation (Plessy, Brown).

Advance script (edit and send). "Dear families, in the coming weeks our class reads primary sources that deal with [racial exclusion from citizenship / planned economies and famine / the Holocaust and the attacks of September 11 / segregation and landmark civil-rights cases]. We approach them soberly and historically, because understanding how liberty is won and lost is central to civics. If you'd like to talk through the material or have questions, please reach out: [name], [email], office hours [day/time]."

14 Running this course live, four days a week, and a suggested pacing schedule

The course is written asynchronously; a live section uses the same content, unchanged, and spreads each week across four class meetings.

Day	Async component it draws on	What the class does live
Day 1: Launch	Lesson 1 and its Reading Quiz; intro wrapper (module start)	Open with the module's essential question or the discussion prompt as a quick poll. Teach the lesson together and model a close read of the first primary source's opening lines. Assign the Reading Quiz as homework or an exit ticket.
Day 2: Source seminar	Primary Source 1 and its Critical Questions	Read and annotate the source as a group. Use the Critical Questions as the discussion spine and have students argue positions aloud before they answer.
Day 3: Deepen and VR	Lesson 2, Primary Source 2, the week's VR exercises	Teach the second half, then run the week's VR activity as a shared session (everyone in the same space, then a short gallery walk). In the five VR Sync weeks, this is the graded Sync Activity.

Day 4: Write and assess	Thursday item; the week's discussion; outro wrapper (module end)	In PSR weeks, students draft the report in class while you circulate: the highest-value use of live time. Close the module with the outro wrapper. Sit the Quarter 3 Exam at the end of Module 8 and the Quarter 4 Exam at the end of Module 11 as normal in-class exams.

Turning solo VR into a shared session: keep the same task, but have students compare choices afterward ("why did you stand where you stood?"). The Reading Quiz works as a live warm-up or exit ticket. If you want the exams weighted differently from the default in Section 5, make that a per-section gradebook change.

Suggested pacing (reference only). The course map assumes one week per row. It is a suggestion; the module numbering governs.
